Gender and Governance in SADC

What do policymakers know about key gender indicators

What should be the biggest gender priorities?

Introduction

- According to United Nations, Africa is affected by Culture, Traditions and beliefs in the journey towards achieving SDG 5 on gender equality.
- There are legal frameworks that have been put in place to ensure that countries get here.

Does legislation explicitly criminalise marital rape?, 2015

Legislation explicitly criminalizes marital rape is whether there is legislation that explicitly criminalizes the act of marital rape by providing that rape or sexual assault provisions apply "irrespective of the nature of the relationship" between the perpetrator and complainant or by stating that "no marriage or other relationship shall constitute a defense to a charge of rape or sexual assault under the legislation".

- Note that the trend in countries having legislation against rape but does not explicitly make it a criminal offence.
- Focusing on Kenya, Protection Against Domestic Violence Act (No. 21 of 2015), mentions marital rape but does not give a provision for legally taking action against partners.

Data points for legal frameworks

- Elimination of all forms of discrimination against women and girls.
- Does law mandate equal pay for males and females?
- Do married men and women have equal rights to property and land?
- Does the law mandate paid or unpaid maternity leave?
- In Kenya these are defined under:
 - Protection Against Domestic Violence Act (No. 21 of 2015)
 - FGM Act of 2011
 - SDG 5: Gender Equality

Rate of achievement of Gender Equality

What we are currently doing to fix data collection and reporting gaps.

- Geostatistical approach to what has been achieved in Counties in Kenya.
 - This is based on weighting of factors such as:
 - Literacy levels/ Level of education
 - Alcoholism
 - Economic status
 - Number of children in the household
